Holy Redeemer supports Holy Family University's newly renovated nursing lab

(PHILADELPHIA, PA) – Holy Family University recently opened its newly renovated Nursing Simulation and Practice Laboratory. The estimated $1 million renovation project includes three nursing simulation rooms, including the “Holy Redeemer Hospital and Medical Center Maternity Simulation Lab” due to the hospital’s long-standing clinical partnership with Holy Family’s nursing faculty and students and its support of the renovation project.

The simulation rooms resemble hospital care units and include life-sized training mannequins that can mimic various medical conditions. The renovations also include practice rooms for fundamental skills and health assessment and a conference room. Teachers and students began using the new laboratory shortly after the start of the fall semester.

Delivering about 3,000 babies each year, the Maternity Center at Holy Redeemer Hospital and Medical Center helps moms prepare for a healthy pregnancy and guides them through labor and delivery. We offer a highly trained, experienced staff of maternity specialists including board-certified obstetricians, anesthesiologists, maternal-fetal medicine specialists, pediatricians, neonatologists and maternal/newborn nurses. If needed, Holy Redeemer provides on-site perinatology, antenatal testing and neonatal intensive care units. And moms can sign up for an array of classes on pregnancy, childbirth preparation and infant care, as well as consult with a lactation specialist for assistance with breastfeeding. For more information or to make an appointment with a Holy Redeemer obstetrician, call 1-800-818-4747 or visit www.yourebeautifulbaby.com.
